

Curriculum Vitae

Margherita Giannoni

Margherita Giannoni is a PhD student in Philosophy at Universidade NOVA de Lisboa. She develops her research at IFILNOVA, as a member of the EPLAB group, under the supervision of Susana Cadilha (IFILNOVA) and co-supervision of María G. Navarro (Universidad de Salamanca). Her project, Beyond the normative self-constitution of personhood: between Bernard Williams and Feminist Ethics, which received an FCT research grant, explores the reception of Bernard Williams within feminist ethics and a reconceptualization of personal identity and integrity. Her research focuses on the interplay between practical agency, philosophy of emotions and feminist ethics. She is also a member of the research project VOCES: El impacto del sesgo de edad en las democracias deliberativas. She has presented her work at international conferences and has contributed to publications on feminist perspective on situated affectivity and practical identity constitution.
